A coach, humorist, storyteller and agent of change, Colin Pearce helps individuals and organisations to reach higher and go further.

Using vibrant multi-media and a unique interactive story style, Colin specialises in take-home value to improve sales skills, customer service, retailing, management and motivation.

Designed to bring about changes in skills and attitude, Colin presents business savvy that sticks and common sense ideas that work, all wrapped in a fast moving package of outrageous ventriloquism, wacky stories, zany sing-along songs, active audience participation, and one laugh after another.

Colin started his career teaching deaf children before moving into television which included ventriloquism, children's shows, script writing, sales management, commercial production and song writing.

After becoming a National Sale Manager for a multi-level marketing company, in 1985 Colin became Director of John Clements Training Systems, which produced and sold top-selling telephone and customer service training video packages to major corporations. In 1987, he founded Colin Pearce & Associates Pty Ltd which now trades as The World Sales Center. It specialises in training, speaking, consulting, media production and book writing.
