

Dean Jones

Brilliant Fieldsman, Coach, Commentator & Keynote Speaker

Dean Jones wrote the book on one-day cricket - literally. Dean played a new game in which he walked down the pitch to fast bowlers, ran frenetically between wickets and turned fielding into an attacking occupation.

A natural showman, Dean was an immensely popular player in Australia. He was also a classic cricketer who once made a triple-century for Victoria and remains their record run maker. He averaged 46 in Tests, and in the tied Test at Madras in 1986-87 played what Bob Simpson said was the greatest innings played for Australia (210); he ended up in hospital on a saline drip.

Following his retirement, Dean Jones carved out a niche as a forthright commentator with Star Sports and as a T20 and T10 Head Coach. He also became involved with numerous charities and in business.

Having played cricket and commentated for many years, Dean is a fully charged keynote speaker who intertwines stories about cricketing with key messages centred around teamwork, partnership and trust.

Additionally, Dean is an excellent MC for charity dinners, and an engaging panel member at fundraising lunches, dinners and breakfasts. A keen golfer, he is an enthusiastic and knowledgeable host for corporate golf days.

Dean not only walked but MC'ed a host of functions for David and assisted him to seek out other celebrity walkers.

He has allowed numerous charity groups to generate interest by using his image for promotional activities.

Client Testimonials

I am NOT a cricketing guru nor do I follow it so I had no preconceptions. Dean talked a bit about cricket and a lot about partnership, teamwork and trust. I could not have got better mileage from a speaker. He was engaging, open and accessible to the attendees. Dean is a great speaker who delivered in great style and was the value in our evening.
