

Robin Bailey

Radio & Television Presenter, MC and Speaker

Robin Bailey is a high-profile Brisbane-based presenter with over 20 years' experience in radio, television, corporate speaking, voice-overs and event hosting.

Having begun her career as a journalist in Sydney, her career has taken her to all the major capital cities of Australia.

Best known for her professional, friendly and down-to-earth attitude, Robin Bailey is a natural corporate speaker and event host who relates to people across all age groups and demographics.

More about Robin Bailey:

Robin's experience has been wide and varied. She has done everything from hosting Hot Science, a national children's television show for Channel 9, to doing the weather on TasTv, and has been a regular guest on various national television shows including Today - Weekends, The Project and Nine News Now. She hosts her own podcast 'The Well' and contributes to mamamia.com.

On radio, Robin is a member of the popular Triple M breakfast show - Marto, Robin & Nick Cody.

Robin is also very involved in charity events having worked for The Royal Children's Hospital (QLD), The Asthma Foundation (QLD) and Dress for Success (QLD). She has also spend time visiting schools to help motivate and encourage young girls.

When not interviewing big celebrities like Matthew McConaughey and P!nk, or attending her fair share of opening nights, Robin loves to spend time with her three school aged sons.

VIEW SPEAKER'S BIO ONLINE ▶