

Allana Corbin

The Sky is Not the Limit

Allana Corbin is an extraordinary Australian whose story continues to inspire audiences across the country and beyond. A survivor of a fatal plane crash in 1990, Allana overcame devastating injuries and immense personal loss to become the first woman to circumnavigate mainland Australia solo in a helicopter.

Her journey didn't stop there. In 2017, Allana faced another heartbreaking tragedy—the loss of her husband in a helicopter crash. With resilience and unwavering determination, she stepped into leadership of their family-run rescue helicopter business in Tasmania. Under her guidance, the operation has more than doubled in size and impact, continuing to save lives while advocating for excellence in regional emergency services.

Allana has fought fiercely to secure and defend critical government contracts, becoming a voice for her dedicated team and for the communities they serve. Her story is one of adventure, endurance, love, and leadership—a powerful testament to human strength and purpose.

Today, Allana shares her experiences as a sought-after keynote speaker. She speaks not only of survival and triumph over adversity, but also of rebuilding, leadership, and legacy. Her daughter, now a commercial helicopter pilot herself, carries on the family passion for aviation—proving that strength, courage, and vision can span generations.

Allana's message is one of hope, grit, and the courage to rise. She doesn't just tell her story—she leaves audiences forever changed by it.

Testimonials

- "Allana was the most inspirational speaker I have heard. Her speech set the benchmark for the rest of our conference. She received a standing ovation and the audience was in tears and laughter at different parts of her presentation. A lovely lady with a marvelous story.
- Apex
- "Absolutely fantastic. Feedback received from delegates have commented they would have listened to her story all day and what a beautiful lady.

- Royal Hobart Hospital
- Wery professional, entertaining, and fun.
- Millennium3 Financial Services Group

VIEW SPEAKER'S BIO ONLINE 3