Dr Joe Kosterisch talks about:

Productivity, morale and health are closely linked. Get people feeling better and they will be more productive and more motivated.

If you have ever wondered why some 60 year olds look 40 and the other way around, then wonder no longer. If you have ever thought that your health is something that is outside your control, then think again.

Presentations can be tailored to the interests and demographics of the group.

Dr Joe is also available for Professional Development days and conducts workshops on getting and staying healthy.
