

Jenn Morris OAM

Olympic Gold Medallist, Former Hockeyroos Captain & Business Leader

Jenn Morris OAM is a business leader who inspires a performance culture and brings people with her through times of change and challenge. Having performed as captain of the dual Olympic gold medal-winning Australian hockey team, and directed large and complex engagements as a consulting partner at Deloitte, Jenn Morris has developed exceptional leadership and communication skills.

A natural, charismatic and in-demand communicator, Jenn's presentations will inspire, motivate and entertain any audience. She draws on the parallels between sport and business in order to reveal the common values and attitudes required for success.

More about Jenn Morris:

Jenn is an accomplished corporate executive and non-executive director, with key experience in advising corporations and government entities on strategy development, governance controls, complex large-scale business transformation, human capital related work, the embedding of ESG (environment, social and governance) related policies and the understanding of high-performance environments learned during her varied career including elite sport.

Jenn is currently a non-executive director of ASX top 10 listed company, Fortescue Metals Group (ASX:FMG), recently appointed as the Chair of the Remuneration and People Committee, and a member of the Audit and Risk Committee. She was recently appointed as a non-executive director of Sandfire Resources (ASX:SFR) and additionally is a member of the Risk Committee and People and Performance Committees. Jenn is also a Director on the Australian Sports Commission.

Jenn was a senior executive of Andrew and Nicola Forrest's Minderoo Foundation where she was CEO of Walk Free, a global human rights organisation. She is a former Partner of global professional services firm Deloitte where she worked across mining, transport and government portfolios. She also served as Chair of Healthway, the then WA-government's peak independent health body, where she successfully aligned the activities of the organisation with the legislation it was intended to enforce and was a Director of AFL club, The Fremantle Dockers for six years. Prior to this, Jenn was a member of the Australian women's hockey team where she won gold medals at the 1996 Atlanta and 2000 Sydney Olympic Games.

Jenn is a strong communicator with extensive experience in team effectiveness and leadership programs. She is also an engaging corporate speaker and storyteller, sharing her extensive experience across the various environments she has worked in. She has demonstrated expertise in leadership from her time as captain with the dual Olympic gold medal-winning Australian hockey team, and her time in governance and corporate executive roles where she developed a keen understanding of what makes for effective leadership, exceptional performance and high-performing teams from the board/executive level down.

Having a great understanding of what makes an individual and team successful especially during times of disruption and change, Jenn's experience has been leveraged in her involvement with clients and boards of organisations. Jenn has had the privilege of seeing the dynamics of a boardroom achieving effective and ineffective outcomes. A key component of the effective examples is always linked to the ability of a group of Directors to genuinely embrace different thinking to ultimately get to a better end result that would not have happened with like-minded individuals.

Jenn Morris talks about:

Jenn Morris speaks about high performance and how to develop and embed exceptional performance environments. Her presentation 'Creating a Leaderful Team' encompasses training and work ethic, continuous learning, growth through adversity, common goals, flexibility, breadth of leadership, honesty and humility. Reflecting on her time with the Hockeyroos, she describes the lessons elite sport can teach business, and the core values of a champion team.

Client testimonials

“ Jenn read the audience well and developed a good rapport. She used humour well and was quick to incorporate local issues into her speech. Her reflection on leadership issues had generic appeal

- Catholic Education Office

“ Jenny was great in catching and holding the attention of a 350 plus crowd at a cocktail style function. Her speech was relevant, motivating and very entertaining. Her great personality really shone through.

- Western Power

“ Excellent presentation for our Senior Executive Forum. Jenn's speech encompassed a real depth of knowledge on 'Leadership' and 'Teamwork' from both business and sporting perspective. She tailored her speech to our exact brief

- Fiona Miller. Wesfarmers Limited

VIEW SPEAKER'S BIO ONLINE

