

Scott Draper

Sports and Business Leader, Performance Consultant and Coach

Scott Draper is an expert in the science and application of sustainable performance across the individual, team and organisational gamut. His unique experiences as a professional athlete on the world stage in two sports (including playing professional golf and Grand Slam tennis on the same day) and working extensively as a high-performance coach with future and former world number 1's, was the genesis of learning what it takes, and what derails sustainable performance at the individual level.

Scott's move from athlete and coach to being a leader of national teams in sport was the turning point to making his most significant transition beyond his performance DNA, into management consulting with a leadership focus. His fascination of leadership, group dynamics, culture and leading systemic change saw him complete a Leadership, Strategy and Innovation MBA, with Dux honours. This period was the catalyst to expand upon individual sustainable performance methodologies, to the team and organisational domains.

The past 10 years, Scott has worked as a facilitator and executive coach across multiple sectors helping individuals, executive teams and organisations apply what it takes to sustain performance.

He is now the co-founder of the Sustainable High-Performance Program. Scott is known for his highly developed leadership and people skills and his reputation as an inspiring and engaging facilitator / presenter.

Scott Draper Talks About

- Leadership
- Culture Change
- High Performing Teams
- Organisational Resilience and Wellbeing

Client testimonials

“ What makes Scott so special is that he is equally able to attend to the emotional and psychological human needs in the quest for extraordinary personal and organisational outcomes. As a facilitator he can read individuals and group dynamics, challenge mindsets, strengthen relationships, whilst maintaining a focus on the outcomes that will drive success. Lastly, Scott has wonderful sense of humour and fun that ensures any experience of working with him is both impressive and deeply enjoyable!

- Melbourne Business School

“ Everything Scotty takes on in life is executed with purpose, passion and precision ... and the results are predictably outstanding!

- Advice First

“ The audience a diverse group of successful entrepreneurs, he engaged them with a tale of love, heart-ache, professionalism, and what is required to deliver elite performance, whatever the context.

- Truly Deeply

VIEW SPEAKER'S BIO ONLINE 