

Luke Heggie

Comedian & Corporate Entertainer

An Australian comedian, but not one of the blazer-wearing ones having his back slapped by satirists and humorists on TV shows. Luke Heggie works mainly as a live stand up comic, but not one of those ones who asks audience members their names and then proceeds to remind them what they look like, which is in very high demand due to the increase in self-obsession of rank and file members of the public.

He is a raw and unapologetic live club act, working six or seven nights per week. When he's not doing that, he is writing and producing MID FLIGHT BRAWL with comedian Nick Cody; a weekly podcast cataloging air rage incidents throughout the ages.

Luke has dabbled in television, including the Just for Laughs Stand-Up Series filmed live at the Sydney Opera House for the Comedy Channel, Melbourne International Comedy Festival Gala for both Channel 10 and the ABC, as well as ABC's Comedy Next Generation. He has also appeared on Question Everything and The Project.

In 2022/23 Luke had a regular segment on ABC's The Weekly, turning his stand up into 3 minute sketches, including The unofficial evolution of masculinity, How to spot a pervert, Do kids have it too easy these days?, and Luke Heggie's had enough of holiday homes.
