

Simon Corah

Futurist, Entrepreneur and Expert in Human Behaviour and Trends

An expert in human behaviour and trends, and a successful entrepreneur, Simon Corah has over 25 years of experience developing evidence-based strategies for business transformation.

Drawing on his exceptional international experience and expertise, backed by extensive research, he develops strategies that enable businesses to transform themselves to capture emerging markets.

Simon is a keynote speaker who goes above and beyond to research your current business, your competition, and your customer base to tailor presentations specific to your needs. In essence, he's not just a keynote speaker; he is a consultant backed by a team of researchers who can direct the future of your business.

Simon worked for the Saatchi brothers for 25 years from 1983 to 2007, starting as a graduate trainee in London, before moving to Sydney after five years. He became MD of Saatchis in Taiwan (1991), then CEO of Ireland (1992-95) before returning to Australia to found M&C Saatchi Australia in May 1995.

Over the following 12 years, Simon built M&C Saatchi up to become a top three Australian Agency, with a range of blue chip clients, 300 staff and $ 50 million in revenues.

Following the sale of M&C Saatchi to AIM on the UK stock exchange, Simon left in 2007, to start Growth Mantra.

Growth Mantra is a boutique strategy consultancy focused on growth. The agency forecasts markets to spot growth opportunities, then develops and brings strategies to life. As an example of its work, Growth Mantra won an international pitch to re-invigorate McDonald's and as a consequence, developed and implemented the 'Create Your Taste' campaign. Growth Mantra is also the brains behind the Woolworths Metro concept. The organisation has worked with other blue-chip companies including AGL, Bupa, Coca-Cola, Diageo, NAB, Optus, and Tabcorp.

An impressive keynote, Simon tailors his presentation, ensuring it is absolutely relevant to where your business is now and where it needs to be to meet your future market.
