

Future Crunch

Convergence of Science and technology for an optimist future

Future Crunch, aka Dr Angus Hervey and Tané Hunter, create unique and memorable experiences. At the heart of every presentation is an exploration of what's happening on the frontiers of science and technology, and an intelligent, courageous optimism about the future.

Future Crunch have spoken at more than 200 events on five different continents, telling stories about how millions of people around the world are coming up with solutions to the big challenges of our time.

Future Crunch's experiences include integrating music and awe-inspiring visuals as a way to integrate both the head and the heart. Future Crunch will never deliver the same talk twice. They pride themselves on ensuring the insights they deliver are fresh and tailored to your audience.

More about Future Crunch:

Future Crunch are part of a global movement of scientists, artists, technologists and entrepreneurs who believe science and technology are creating a world that is more peaceful, transparent and abundant.

Founded by political economist, Dr Angus Hervey and cancer scientist, Tane Hunter in 2014, Future Crunch is a thought leadership brand consisting of a team of corporate speakers, workshop facilitators and experience designers. They specialize in the creation and delivery of dynamic, uplifting, visually spectacular presentations that combine world-class research with inspiring stories of human progress.

The team of un-like minds is diverse by design. There are economists, musicians, psychologists, scientists, designers and artists, and they are on a mission to foster intelligent, optimistic thinking about the future.

Future Crunch love science and technology, they think collaboration always trumps genius, and they believe that if we want to change the story of the human race, we have to change the stories we tell ourselves.

Future Crunch are disruptive in their optimism. They cut through the dominant discourse of a planet destined to destruct, and give us all the inspiration to activate purpose and be a part of a movement that stands for collective hope about the future. They invite audiences to become curious about the miraculous advancements occurring for humanity today.

On stage, Angus and Tané are showmen who weave charisma with credibility, and stagecraft with steadfast knowledge and research. They are original yet relatable, entertaining yet relevant to any organisation looking to harness the forces of technological disruption, drive cultural change and take advantage of the opportunities ahead.
